Project Management

Project Definition and Planning

Sterlite project managers provide the leadership to steer your most strategic projects toward successful outcomes. We bring a pragmatic approach to leading complex, large-scale initiatives. Sterlite project managers achieve wins within rapidly changing environments, while facing uncertainty and risk. Within the last decade, we have helped lead, measure, govern, and execute hundreds of client projects to improve operational performance.

Once the business strategy has been defined, the people are aligned, the processes optimized and the tools chosen, the next step is to determine and prioritize the projects to be initiated. This is an extremely important step, because most businesses fail to understand the criticality of properly planning for a successful project.

Be sure to engage a PMI (Project Management Institute) certified PMP (Project Management Professional) to help you handle this step because every step outlined in the PMBOK is necessary to mitigate the risk of a failed project. A failed project is one that does not meet its intended objective.

Define and prioritize your projects.
Plan extensively to mitigate risk of failure before starting.
Start with small short-term projects.

Our team of Project Management Professionals, Six Sigma Certified, Lean Leadership and technology experts can provide you an initial assessment to help set you on the road to success.

Summary:

1. People – What do you want? Who can help you do it?
2. Process – How are you going to do it?
3. Tools – What can help accelerate your success?

Project Management Methodology

Following a proven system will always net better results than doing things the same old-way. Schedule and budget constraints make it imperative to start any initiative with a strong road map to avoid mistakes and unforeseeable risks.

Our deep understanding of Project Management Methodologies will give your team a secure sense that any initiative across the enterprise will be executed properly allowing you to complete it on-time and under-budget. We can facilitate this learning and coaching.

PARTNERNETWORK

Sterlite is a certified Oracle Gold partner and an SBA 8a Certified Minority business.

"Sterlite built our solution supporting 3 lines of business and distinctive product lines. Their solution is supporting the functionality our previous vendor was unable to provide and this solution saves us on average $100,000 weekly."

J.T.

"The Sterlite delivery team is the brain power on our largest most critical ATG implementations globally. "

J.M.

"As one of only 2 global training partners Sterlite can provide the scale and depth needed. "

"Sterlite's' cost to deliver our ATG Solution was nearly 30% lower than our previous vendor. They also provided functionality in 30 days which our previous vendor could not perform in 90 days."

"We found their knowledge and productivity in migrating data and integration our other enterprise applications with Oracle ATG to be key in driving out cost and improving customer satisfaction."
